Government Stymied In Co. A Case; Will Call Own Handwriting Expert

Trial Scheduled Again Monday

(Special To The Daily Record)

SCRANTON — The U.S. Dept. of Justice yesterday continued its efforts in federal court here to pin a forgery charge on M. Sgt. Robert E. Schoonover, 41, of 32 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg.

Stymied for the present in efforts to tie Schoonover in with forgery of checks of Co. A, First Battle Group, 109th Infantry, the government called upon a handwriting expert from Washington to aid its cause.

W. A. Shellenberger of the questioned document section of the U. S. Treasury Dept. was delayed by yesterday's snow storm and did not arrive in time for the curtailed session. It is expected he will testify for the government, probably in rebuttal, next week.

Schoonover is on trial before Chief Federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan and a jury on charges of check forgery and using the mails to defraud. He has denied the charges.

Indications are that it will be Tuesday or Wednesday before the case reaches the jury.

The government could not shake the testimony of Norris McCool, a Philadelphia handwriting expert, that signatures involved in the criminal proceedings were not those of Schoonover.

However, Asst. U. S. Atty. Carlton M. O'Malley Jr., hinted of further developments — possibly grand jury testimony before indictments were returned — when he asked McCool: "If I told you that Robert E. Schoonover told me he signed checks, would you believe it?"

McCool answered, "No, sir," and at that point O'Malley terminated his questioning of the handwriting expert.

Remained Cool
McCool remained cool under hours of cross-examination and insisted the signatures on the checks were not Schoonover's.

"I have no doubt in my mind he didn't do it," McCool testified. "Are you sure Marek forged the checks?" O'Malley asked, referring to First Sgt. Vincent Marek Jr., Tannersville, who was the principal government witness against Schoonover.

"I'm satisfied it's Marek's handwriting. I'm not positive I can prove it to you. I don't have the material," McCool testified.

McCool insisted he had never been proven wrong in testifying in approximately 500 court cases. "I could be fooled by a clever forger, but I don't know of that happening," he added.

Signatures on the checks were described as "reasonably clever forgeries" by the expert.

Insists Not Capable
McCool insisted that Schoonover "was not capable of having that writing ability to do it (the forgery)."

"I could be mistaken in this case. I'm pretty sure I'm not, because I've been awfully careful," he continued.

Schoonover, a fulltime employee of the Pennsylvania National Guard, is on leave status until the charges against him are disposed of. He is a veteran of overseas combat service in the European Theater of Operations and is the father of two children.

Schoonover admitted receiving Co. A checks at his home address, but insisted he turned them over, unopened, to Sgt. Marek in the company orderly room.

Schoonover explained the diverting of checks as being for the purpose of coming into contact with National Guardsmen who owed for clothing or had drill attendance problems.

The defendant testified to picking up checks for at least three men who had clothing problems. Some failed to bring equipment back and he said personal contact was necessary when they came to claim drill pay checks.

Schoonover denied ever endorsing or cashing checks to which he was not entitled.

It was a matter of common knowledge among Co. A non-commissioned officers regarding the practice of changing check addresses, Schoonover testified.

He said that in 1956 he received a check and turned it over to Marek unopened.

The defendant told of a Frederick L. Miller being enlisted in the National Guard, even though he resided in New Jersey.

"Marek enlisted him and gave him my address. I approved of it," Schoonover said, "because it was benefiting the company which needed manpower."

Judge Sheridan adjourned court shortly after 3 p.m. because of weather conditions. Sessions will resume at 10 a.m. Monday.

Sgt. Melvin Curtis of Co. A and former Lt. Richard Rugg of the same unit testified earlier in the day.

Both said they received checks, but turned them over to Sgt. Marek. They said they were unaware of the check practice until after they received a draft and talked to Sgt. Marek.

Marek has pleaded no contest to charges of forgery, issuing false statements and using the mails to defraud. He will be sentenced later.

Shellenberger was on a plane bound for Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport at Avoca from Washington, but was unable to land at the field because of weather conditions. The plane returned to Allentown and Shellenberger made the trip to Scranton by bus.

It was learned Friday that the government is charging former Capt. Gerald E. Shanley Jr., Stroudsburg, with aiding and abetting the scheme involving Co. A checks and diverting them to other than payees. Shanley, who was in the courtroom for the third day, faces trial at a later date.

Plane Misses Liner

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A small plane, far off course and apparently out of fuel, crash-landed astern of the Queen Elizabeth in the Atlantic on Friday and plunged beneath the waves.

The British luxury liner immediately put about, but radioed the Coast Guard at Portsmouth, Va., she could find no survivors.

A stern lookout said the single-engine plane circled the ship and came in for a pancake landing in the ocean one-quarter mile off the stern at 7:10 a.m.

Continue Search

A Navy ship and two Coast Guard land-based planes continued a search for survivors during the day at the scene, 235 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The Federal Aviation Agency in Washington said the pilot left San Juan, Puerto Rico, on Thursday night for St. Petersburg, Fla.

Three versions of the name of the owner of the aircraft came from the FAA and the makers of the plane, but all agreed that his address was 1204 N. Linden St., Bloomington, Ill.

The FAA in Washington listed him as E. W. Harmon, the FAA in Oklahoma City as Donald William Haarmann, and Beech, the manufacturer in Wichita, Kan., recorded the original buyer as Donald W. Haarmann.

Names Pilot

Miss Ora Larson said in Bloomington that the pilot probably was Donald W. Haarmann, 53, who she said had flown to Puerto Rico about 10 days ago. She said he planned to return to Illinois through Florida this weekend.

A friend and business associate of Haarmann for 20 years, she said he was a former Air Force colonel and retired in 1945. He was unmarried. She said they had been business associates for 17 years in a small engineering firm in Bloomington.

It was not known whether the pilot was alone in the plane. The red-nosed Beech 35 plane was far north of its planned course and carried only a nine-hour fuel supply.

A Coast Guard C130 turboprop plane in contact with the Queen Elizabeth reported that crewmen on the liner "saw plane coming in, her prop apparently dead, headed for the water. The plane pancaked and immediately went under. Saw no survivors and was on scene immediately."

One Hurt In Unusual Accident

ONE PERSON was slightly hurt in an unusual accident in front of 1085 W. Main St., Stroudsburg, at 7:08 p.m. yesterday.

Borough police said a car driven by Barry N. Houser, 16, Stroudsburg, RD 1, traveling west on the street, struck a front end owned by the borough and operated by Mahlon R. Lee, 29, of 516 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Barbara Strunk, 17, of 1114 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg, a passenger in Houser's car sustained a bump on the forehead, but did not require hospitalization.

Police said the accident occurred when Miss Strunk's three-year-old sister, Wanda, climbed onto Houser's shoulder. They said he took his eyes from the road as he tried to re-seat the child.

The car was described as a total loss. The loader was not damaged.

No Injuries

No one was injured in a two-vehicle accident at Seventh and Main Sts. at 6:15 p.m.

Police said a car driven by Frederick H. Leonhardt, 46, of 1362 Stanley Ave., Bethlehem, and a tractor-trailer owned by Modern Transfer Co., Allentown, and operated by Marcus Roth, 48, of 403 S. Seventh St., Emmaus, were involved. Damage was not extensive.

Backs Scranton's Bingo Position

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Pittsburgh union spoke out Friday in support of Gov. Scranton's position on bingo playing under supervision.

"This harmless recreation, which permits a little social pleasure in the lives of working and retired people, is well deserving of administration support and I am sure will be received with approval by all segments of labor."

Bob Kennedy Denies He'll Run In '68

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy whipped out an "emphatically not" when asked if he is planning to run for president in 1968.

But the consensus among Washington politicians Friday is that time possibly could change what most of them feel is about the only reply the President's brother could make to such an inquiry at this point.

Interviewed during a limousine ride from a hotel speaking engagement to his Justice Department office, Kennedy tried to scotch some other rumors that have been bouncing around in Washington recently.

He said it is completely ridiculous and untrue that he might become his brother's secretary of state, with Dean Rusk moving to the United Nations as ambassador and Adlai E. Stevenson moving out in the political cold.

As to whether he is being groomed for a run at the 1968 Democratic presidential nomination, Kennedy's words were: "Absolutely no. I don't even think about being president. I know that may sound funny to some people, but that's the truth."

With respect to his unusual role of presidential adviser, Kennedy had this to say: "I try to do the best job I can running the Department of Justice as attorney general. It's a very important job. Sure, the President gets my advice on matters outside the department, just as he does from lots of others. But he weighs it, just as he does the advice of others, and then makes the decisions himself."

For Communist Subversion

JFK's Aide Cites Cuba As Red School

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's intelligence director says a dangerous, widespread, highly organized Communist subversion apparatus is being built around Latin Americans trained in Cuba.

Despite the gravity of the threat to hemisphere governments as described by John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, a Republican critic charged the administration "is not leveling with us."

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, a member of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, complained McCone "was not very lucid on a lot of this stuff" when he appeared before the subcommittee Feb. 19. His censored testimony was released Friday.

Gross claimed McCone's appearance was part of a pattern of "coverup of what has happened and then build up a case for giving more money to the Alliance for Progress."

President Kennedy insists that the threat of Communist subversion in Latin America never can be effectively overcome until there are effective economic and political reforms to meet the poverty and discontent on which the Reds trade. The Alliance for Progress is the administration's chief weapon in this fight.

Rep. Armistead Selden, D-Ala., the subcommittee chairman, released the testimony which appeared to consist of McCone's prepared statement and did not include the question-and-answer exchanges between him and subcommittee members.

McCone testified that at least

1,000 to 1,500 "students" from all except one Latin-American country went to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba in 1962 to receive practical training in guerrilla warfare, sabotage and terrorism. The flow is continuing this year, he added, "despite the limited facilities for reaching Cuba at present."

McCone said the trainees are organized into national units, "in effect forming a packaged cadre which can be returned to the homeland at the appropriate time to lead a 'liberation army.'"

Kennedy has made reference to these "students" being trained in Cuba and McCone's testimony actually contained little that has not been disclosed piecemeal before by one source or another.

One Democratic subcommittee member, who declined to be identified, said he did not even go to the meeting to hear McCone because he regards such a briefing as an exercise in futility.

McCone's testimony and the reaction it served to dramatize anew how the focus of congressional concern over Cuba has shifted to the subversion peril and away from talk of a direct military threat to the United States from the presence in Cuba of Soviet military personnel—now officially estimated at around 17,000.

Two Hurt In 3-Car Accident

TWO persons were injured in a three-vehicle accident on Route 611 at Tannersville at 11:20 a.m. yesterday.

State Police of the Stroudsburg barracks identified the drivers as Thomas Blair, 42, of 70 Grandview Ave., East Stroudsburg, operating a station wagon; Wayne G. Muntz, 43, Jamestown, N. Y., driving a tractor-trailer, and Earl Kresge, 60, Swiftwater, operating a sedan.

Kresge was treated at Monroe County General Hospital for a cut mouth and left shoulder injury and discharged. A passenger in his car, Mrs. Blanche Kresge, also of Swiftwater, was in good condition at the hospital where she is being treated for concussion, a cut of the right eye and a broken shoulder blade.

Damage was estimated at $500 to Blair's vehicle, $300 to the tractor-trailer and $150 to Kresge's car. The highway was slippery at the time, troopers said.

Storm From West Hits Eastern Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A storm sped across the Midwest and into the East Friday, tossing a treacherous coating of snow and freezing rain on streets and roads.

The storm center moved rapidly across parts of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio and headed northeastward toward New England.

Heavy snow threatened traffic tie-ups in Indiana. Martinsville schools closed before noon while the snow approached the one-foot mark.

Schools also suspended classes in and around Shelbyville, Ind., after more than eight inches of snow accumulated.

Robinson, Ill., had 8.5 inches of snow while communities in surrounding counties reported two inches or less.

Cities along U.S. 50 in Southern Illinois had up to five inches of snow. In some places it blended with freezing rain to create dangerous motoring conditions.

Dayton and Columbus, Ohio, had four inches of snow.

Warnings of heavy snow and hazardous driving weather went out to sections of Indiana and Ohio, Northern Kentucky, Western and Northern Pennsylvania, Upstate New York and most of New England.

March entered like a lamb in much of the country. But it came in like a lion in many areas in the northeastern quarter and in sections of the South.

Heavy Rain

Heavy rain hit some districts in the lower Mississippi Valley amid scattered lightning and thunder.

Temperatures dropped below zero early in the day in some northern states. Among the readings: Lone Rock, Wis., -16, Caribou, Maine, -14, and Traverse City, Mich., -3.

The Weather Bureau issued a corrected 30-day outlook. The outlook, as distributed Thursday, predicted well below normal cold from the Mississippi to the Atlantic.

But the bureau said Friday that March temperatures in the eastern half of the country will average 10 to 15 degrees higher than in February.

"However," it added, "temperatures are expected to average somewhat below seasonal normals over the northeastern quadrant and also in the far Southwest. Above normal temperatures are indicated for the West Coast states and also for the Northern and Central Plains."

Test Ban Talks Near Collapse

GENEVA (AP)—Negotiations to ban nuclear weapons tests seemed headed Friday night toward collapse despite recent hopes that the Cuban settlement could point the way to a breakthrough. All sides talked of failure after a day of fruitless debate.

Less than three weeks after the new round of talks opened Feb. 12 the Soviet Union slammed the door on any detailed negotiations for a treaty as long as the West rejects the Soviet offer of two or three annual on-site inspections.

Soviet Ambassador Semyon K. Tsarapkin's statement and the departure of the top-ranking American and Russian negotiators appeared to bring the 4½-year-old talks to the verge of collapse. A neutral delegate told newsmen the talks "are at zero point."

William C. Foster, the American negotiator, said "We want to negotiate. Unfortunately, we have found that thus far the Soviet Union does not."

Foster Returns

Foster returns to Washington Saturday, but will be ready to come back to Geneva if there is any evidence of a change in the atmosphere.

"At the moment, he can accomplish what was in Washington in Geneva," an American source said.

Foster's Soviet counterpart, First Deputy Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov, flew back to Moscow last Saturday.

Tsarapkin told the conference that detailed discussions of administrative, technical or financial questions could result in nothing but harm as long as there is no agreement on the main question of inspection.

Foster told the conference the West could make no commitment on the number of on-site inspections to check on suspected treaty violations without knowing what the Soviet Union understood by inspection.

He stressed that the United States and Britain remain flexible on the number of inspections, "as long as we know that a number of inspections, once agreed, can effectively be carried out."

Lenten Meditation

By Rev. Louis C. Johnson
Minister, East Stroudsburg
Methodist Church

THREE crosses stood on a bald hill top — three men hung on those crosses on that bald mountain of Golgotha. . . one man sub ordinary; condemned to crucifixion as a criminal — cruel, crass and cynical. The second person — other than ordinary; condemned to crucifixion as a criminal — yet aware of his sin, alert to Christ's Innocence and Ability and alive to Christ's power to save him. The MAN ON THE MIDDLE CROSS — MORE THAN ORDINARY. JESUS THE CHRIST. Voluntarily that Cross, victimized yet victor that Cross. Vicariously on that Cross — sinless yet carrying the sins of all sinners (all men) to sin's defeat in His death on Calvary's Cross.

The sub normal individual persisted in thoughts of bitterness, hatred, condemnation, and curses — unyielding, unwilling to accept the Light and Love of Christ and be greater than he was — so in darkness he perished.

The other than ordinary in a judged himself, and sought in his new strength found in Christ to win his neighbor to belief in God's Beloved Christ — at that time already His Saviour. This condemned man even in his desperate condition dared to believe and saw God blot out condemnation and write instead converted. What a Transformation! This was a foretaste of Easter-Resurrection power at work already on the cross. This convert's faith in Christ pleased God, so Jesus took him Home with Him into Paradise from the cross.

Even The Christ with more than ordinary character, supernatural power, can't make a sinner believe and be blessed. On the other hand His death on Calvary's Cross opened the Door to Eternal Life to all men who take The Saviour as more than a man, who by heroic faith accept Him as Saviour.

Lenten Discipline teaches us anew that The Way Of The Cross Leads Home. In renewal and rededication Christians see that from the cross love's pure light is richly streaming to cleanse the heart and banish sin away. So comes pardon over our sinful spirits telling us that in Christ we have been reborn, so that we may love Him with a love undying till we are gathered to His bright Home above."

Worship and Work in Jesus' Life ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 9:2-50.

Christ took His three most favored disciples—Peter, James and John—up to the top of 10,000-ft. Mt. Hermon in northern Palestine. There, in the company of Moses and Elijah, who mysteriously appeared, Christ was transfigured dazzling by God's glory. —Mark 9:2-8.

When they came down to the foot of the mountain, they found the other disciples trying in vain to heal a demon-possessed boy. The father begged Christ's help, and when He demanded and got the man's faith, Christ was able to heal the boy, through prayer only.—Mark 9:14-29.

On the way from Mt. Hermon to Capernaum, the disciples secretly argued with one another about their own greatness. At Capernaum, Christ called them together and told them that the one who would be greatest must be the last, and the servant of all.—Mark 9:33-35.

Then He placed a child in their midst and gathered him in His arms. He explained that whoever received a child in His name really received Christ Himself; and whoever received Christ also received God, Who sent Him.—Mark 9:36-37. GOLDEN TEXT: John 4:34.

Religion Today:

Worship And Work In Jesus' Life

By N. SPEER JONES

CHRIST'S unique combination of divinity and humanity is nowhere more sharply set forth than in today's lesson, wherein Mark relates in immediate succession the Transfiguration of Christ and His very human healing of a demon-possessed boy.

Our story opens six days after the concluding episode of last week's lesson, Peter's confession of Christ in Caesarea Philippi. Partly for this reason, scholars feel quite sure that the Transfiguration took place on a mountain called Mt. Hermon, which is just six days' journey from Caesarea Philippi. It is a peak ten thousand feet high, the great northern landmark of Palestine, and visible from every part of Palestine.

For this event in His life Christ chose as witnesses only the "inner three" of His disciples, those closest to Him and the only ones privileged to witness certain of His experiences, such as in the Garden of Gethsemane. These three are Peter, James and John, the apostles who were most active in the early days of the church.

In addition to Christ and His three chosen apostles, two others were present at His Transfiguration—Elijah and Moses, who represented the Old Testament in its two great aspects—law (Moses) and prophecy (Elijah). The apostles represented the covenant of the Gospel. These two great Old Testament figures give further emphasis to the overwhelming significance of Christ.

March Roared Into County Like Lion, Coughing Heavy Snowfall On Region

THE March lion sat down on Monroe County with a thump yesterday.

In a winter aptly termed the winter of our discontent by some malcontented residents, the latest in a series of heavy snows fouled up things in general and the highways in particular.

Reports from all sections of the county noted trucks and vehicles spinning and sliding to a snowy halt on hills, traffic backed up for long distances on the thruway, and State Police waiting for the phone to start ringing.

Late yesterday snow reached a depth in some areas of nine inches, and the weather bureau at Avoca said more was to be expected through the night. Sixty-one inches of the white stuff have fallen since October, the bureau said.

Snow will end this morning, and cloudiness will continue today with a high pegged at 26-32 degrees.

At 9 a.m. yesterday, State Highway Department crews were dispatched to work round the clock while the storm continued. About 50 pieces of equipment and 97 men were sent into the storm to battle the deepening snow.

Mount Pocono reported seven to eight inches of snow; Milford noted six inches with trucks backlogged across area highways; Lehigh had seven inches, and Wind Gap had eight inches.

Situation Critical

Around Snyder'sville, the situation was critical yesterday afternoon. Rt. 12, carrying the normal load to Bartonville plus rerouted traffic from Rt. 209, was clogged on the Snyder'sville hill—a half-mile affair littered with trucks and vehicles.

The Rt. 209 by-pass at the construction site was also tied up by a jack-knifed truck. In Stroudsburg, where Interstate 80 hits Rt. 611, trucks had clogged the mouth of the outlet. Traffic was backed up from the intersection all the way to the Main St. overpass, about a mile and a half distant.

The storm system moved up from the south and in from the west yesterday, spitting freezing rain on Pittsburgh and parts of West Virginia as it came.

Temperatures through last night remained below freezing, precluding a lessening of storm impact through melting snow.

The five-day forecast leaves little to be cheerful about. During the period, temperatures are expected to average from three to seven degrees below the normal of 31.

Though it is expected that the March lion will remove his derriere from the region and saunter off into the northlands this month, county residents aren't betting on it.

A TOUCH OF SPRING—With a song in her heart and a flower in her hand Mrs. Deward Shook ignores the raging snowstorm at her back and delights in the floral display in Howell's window, Main St., Stroudsburg. Spring may be a little late this year, but it will come!

New head Of Depot Slated

A NEW commander for the Tobyhanna Army Depot is expected to be named sometime next week, it was learned yesterday.

The new chief will replace Col. Dayton W. Eddy, who had been in charge of the giant installation since last Nov. 1.

Colonel Eddy, who has been recommended to the Senate by President Kennedy for the rank of brigadier general, was transferred, effective today, to the Army Security Agency at Arlington, Va., where he will serve as deputy commanding general.

He has been on leave since Feb. 18, arranging for his new assignment and for the transfer of his family from Tobyhanna to the Arlington area.

Lt. Col. George Kahl, deputy commander, has been in command of the installation since that time and will continue in that role until the new chief is appointed. Colonel Kahl, who has been at Tobyhanna two years, also held assignments at executive offices and chief of the maintenance division.

Stroudsburg Demos Form New Club

THE newly formed Democratic Club of the Stroudsburgs held a pre-organizational meeting at Stroudsburg YMCA recently. The club is being formed by a group of interested citizens who felt the need for a stronger and more active local Democratic organization.

Thursday night's meeting was the latest of a series of meetings of smaller groups to discuss the need and possibility of such an organization.

Stuart Pipher and Mrs. Grace Palmer, chairman and co-chairman of the Monroe County Democratic registration committee addressed the group offering cooperation from the County Executive Board.

Frank Butler was elected temporary chairman. In his address, Butler said that "it is the purpose of the club to attract more people actively to the party, fight for what we believe is right, and through political education and active participation we hope to create a pool of good candidates for the future. The seeds of political success are sown far in advance of any election day, and it is the sum total of the little things that happen which lead to eventual victory on election day."

All of those present expressed approval and support of the aims of the club.

Temporary committee chairmen were appointed and plans were discussed for a dinner at a future date with a nationally prominent speaker. Another meeting is planned for March.

Ill Council Meets In Hospital

HONESDALE — Sickness plays odd tricks on people and their business, and so it did with the Honesdale Borough Council.

Councilman Aramis VanDeusen is a patient in Wayne Memorial Hospital and was unable to attend the regular meeting of council at which time the passing of the 1963 budget, an 18-mill tax ordinance, and a resolution affecting the bond issue for a sewage disposal plant were the top items on the agenda.

In addition to this Councilmen Walter Cunningham and Wilbur Pohle were confined to their homes with flu, and George Williams, vice president of the council, is on vacation. So it was impossible to have a quorum present.

Yesterday the three councilmen met in the hospital room of VanDeusen. Also attending the session were Mayor Lewis A. Howell Jr., Borough Solicitor John J. Koehler and Council Secretary William Rummetsch.

A quorum being present, the budget, tax ordinance and a resolution confirming the Municipal Authority's refinancing of the sewage plant bond issue were adopted.

The bus, driven by John Mitchell, halted at the Court home in Delaware Water Gap, enabling passengers from Ramsey School to wave "get well" tidings and present a basket of fruit to Jill who has been ill for quite a spell.

Other Gifts

Also the Mitchell's passengers presented the young girl with a picture of her favorite bus and drawings inscribed with the names of her friends.

Neighbors who witnessed the proceedings said the kind turn of the Bus No. 7 and its passengers was "just what the doctor ordered."

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Court.

Varied Programs In Progress

This is the first column in a weekly series on the school districts of Monroe County. School administrators are contacted each week and divulge information of current interest to persons with the most stake in the school systems — the parents. The series will be written by Jeff Cox, a Daily Record reporter.

Stroud Union

Similar to a college catalogue, the high school has prepared a multi-lithed booklet with the title: "Your Program of Studies." The booklet covers requirements and electives in all the curricula from grades nine through 12.

A "What Is Offered" section in the back of the booklet explains the electives to students; credit hours are listed in the body of the text. Much better than walking into a course blind.

Social doings for the seventh and eighth graders are in the works for Friday. It's the seventh and eighth grade party, held in the gymnasium from 7:30 to 10:30. A real introduction to social events encountered in high school by the neophyte scholars.

A week from today the National Merit Scholarship test will be held in the auditorium beginning at 8:30 a.m. A Merit Scholar is a proud acquisition for any high school, and the students will be tested severely for the prize.

On the aesthetic side, a group of paintings will be hung in the auditorium on Monday, courtesy of the Pocono Mountains Art Center. Studyhall teachers will permit students to file past the efforts, and critical comments will be hoped from the viewers.

East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools

The school is in a flap about the upcoming District Band Festival on March 7, 8, and 9.

Students from all over north-eastern Pennsylvania will attend the big jam session, and parents and school officials are working long hours preparing for the "big."

To qualify for the festival, students must be named from each school on their merits as musicians. The festival will feature top talent from the whole district.

On the educational end of the scholastic see-saw, the school is preparing for the March 22 in-service day on curriculum instruction and revision.

Three speakers will be spotlighted: Dr. Norman Miller and Dr. Donald Carroll of the State Department of Education and Dr. O. H. Aurand, superintendent of the Lancaster schools.

Pocono Mountain Joint Schools

Realizing the special problems of the talented student as well as the special needs of the slow, the Pocono Mountain schools will institute special classes for the talented beginning in September.

The classes will be for students from grades seven through 12, and will be given during regular class hours. C. Willis Dunlap, district supervisor, said more details will be available in the very near future.

One can foresee every parent plugging to enroll his offspring in the courses, but despite problems, the program for the gifted student can increase his potential education substantially.

Pleasant Valley Joint Schools

A high school forensic meeting is on tap for March, with the date to be set later. Schools enrolling their latter-day stenographers are Bangor Area High School, Pocono Mountain, Stroud Union, Pocono Catholic Missions, and Pleasant Valley. The only invited school which has not announced its entry so far is East Stroudsburg.

The school has also instituted a creative writing club, under the direction of John Sebring. The junior writers are working on poems from 16 to 60 lines, with a stipulated rhyme scheme. The senior craftsmen are polishing up the final draft of an essay entitled, "Youth's Approach Toward World Forces."

The study and practice of writing are fruitful enough to justify any time spent — as the saying goes, one can't become a writer except by writing, and writing some more, and some more after that.

Frank Piersol

Conductor For Band Festival

FRANK Piersol, associate professor in the department of music at Iowa State University and director of its bands, will be the guest conductor at the concert of the Northeast District Band to be presented next Saturday, March 9, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School.

A native of Clarkfield, Minn., Piersol received his bachelor of arts degree from Grinnell College and his master of arts from the University of Iowa.

Prior to his appointment to the faculty of Iowa State in 1948, he was director of instrumental music at Stanley, Iowa, for three years; Maynard, Iowa, two years; Osage, Iowa, seven years, and Waterloo, Iowa, four years.

At Our Peril

The right to choose is a basic right in any society that can honestly call itself free. That means the right to choose where we will live and work—and the right to choose what products and services we will voluntarily buy.

This includes the right to choose the fuel—the source of energy—we want. That right is imperiled by an effort to pass a law which would give a government agency the authority to control the “end-use” of fuels. In other words, that agency could tell us what fuel, or what source of energy, we would be allowed to use for one purpose or another.

Back of this is a simple story. Once wood was the major fuel source for industrial and private use. Then coal took over and, by 1920, supplied more than 78 percent of the nation's mechanical energy. But the clock of progress did not stop at this point. Year by year more and more people and enterprises turned to oil as an energy source, attracted by its convenience, efficiency and economy. To take a major example, now almost all railroad engines are diesel. Today petroleum supplies some 75 percent of the nation's energy requirements.

The proposed law would, beyond argument, turn the clock of progress back. As one authority has observed, it would be as if the wagon builders and buggy whip makers of 50 years ago had successfully pushed for legislation restricting the use of the automobile. And it is interesting—and important—that a comprehensive energy and fuels study authorized by the U. S. Senate decisively rejects the principle of end-use control of fuels.

We may, or may not, like progress. But we impede it at our peril.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Tax Cut Change

President Kennedy has now openly declared he is willing to sacrifice his proposed tax reforms in order to insure a tax reduction this year of $10 billion or more.

His public declaration to this effect was made at a meeting of some 300 members of the American Bankers Association in Washington.

The surprising part of this announcement is its timing. It comes before the Congress has even held a hearing on Mr. Kennedy's tax proposals and it would appear to jettison the reforms even before they are considered by the lawmakers.

Unquestionably it was prompted by the flood of protests to the reform proposals on Capitol Hill. Constituents from all parts of the country and in all walks of life wrote their congressmen to object to the proposals after they had been outlined by the President and the administration. Several of the features of the reforms would have, in effect, cut down the amount of a tax reduction which would be gained under the overall scheme. This was particularly true of the proposed elimination of several deductions now afforded the taxpayer. The Kennedy administration was not unaware of these complaints nor the attitude of many lawmakers who looked askance at the intended reforms. It was probably because of a conviction that the reforms had little if any chance of congressional approval that Mr. Kennedy as much as gave them up at this early date, although indicating that he would still like to see them enacted.

In his talk to the bankers and in a question and answer session, the President indicated a second modification of his thinking on taxes. He suggested that it would be fine if Congress voted a tax cut even larger than his proposed $10 billion.

“If we are going to err,” he said, “I would certainly err on the side of a large enough tax cut—not to go through this laborious, painful procedure which we are going through and then bring forth a mouse.”

The President was then asked if he would accept a tax cut without tax reform. His answer: “Whatever is necessary to get that bill, I will support.”

Seated alongside the President on the occasion was Secretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon. Mr. Dillon just two weeks ago informed Congress that he would urge Mr. Kennedy to veto tax cut legislation that omitted tax reform. Now Washington is speculating on a possible rift between the two.

Compulsion Is Worst Enemy

The angriest letters that this columnist provokes come from people who don't like to see objections raised to the compulsory features of the union shop. “So the union shop is the road to slavery? What the devil do you know about it?” writes one man. And from another: “What right have you to talk about the union shop? You've probably never seen the inside of a factory.”

Such protests require an answer that involves a bit of autobiography. In the first place, this columnist has probably seen the inside of more factories than most people; for some twelve years of his working life he wrote industrial survey articles of one type or another.

After watching the rhythm of work in a number of factories, one soon gets a sixth sense about happy shops and miserable ones—and the happy ones are not always co-extensive with the state of unionization in them.

Some unions have done some good in some places, but some of the most sullen workmen are those who are tied up tighter than a drum by a closed or a union shop dominated by an unbudgeable and tyrannical leadership.

More important than the factories which this columnist has seen, however, is his own experience as a union man. In the Nineteen Thirties, when I worked for Fortune Magazine, I was one of the founder-members of the local unit of the New York Newspaper Guild.

That was in the “Red Decade,” as it has been called in the title of a book by Eugene Lyons. We soon found that our unit of the Guild was a battleground between Communist sympathizers and anti-Communists.

The Communist sympathizers had a “line”—and they fought for it far more pertinaciously, and with a much better sense of organization, than the anti-Communists could ever seem to manage.

So it went until an ex-Communist named Whittaker Chambers joined our anti-Communist caucus in the unit. This was long before the Hiss case broke. Chambers, out of his capacious knowledge of Communist strategy and tactics, explained to us the methods by which a mere handful of genuine Communists managed to manipulate Fellow Travelers and the vague “liberals” who were fashionably “Left” until the signing of the Nazi-Soviet Pact finally disillusioned them.

Soon our caucus was staying in there until the late hours of the evening, slugging it out with the tactics of the extreme Left. We began to get somewhere—and the Time, Inc., Guild unit, in which Fortune Magazine writers were included, was eventually able to purge itself of the Fellow Traveler influence.

It was during this experience as a member of a white collar union that I decided it would be too much of a gamble ever to tie myself up with any compulsory organization short of the United States of America.

Actually, a union shop at Time, Inc., might not have proved permanently intolerable, for the Communists could hardly have mustered the persuasiveness to dominate the innocent majority once Stalin had really begun to show the malevolence of his true character. But even if the Communists had managed to control the unit for a brief period it would have been bad enough.

If they had been successful in their take-over strategy, and if they had managed to tie the whole writing staff up within a compulsory union shop, what troubles they might have caused for those of us who insisted on attacking the Communist line in print! Character assassination would have been the least of it.

This columnist remained a Guild member for fifteen years. But it was always with the knowledge that he was a wholly voluntary membership, and that if he didn't like the Guild leadership he was free to dissent—and, if necessary, make the dissent effective by sending in his resignation.

I was not the best union member in the world, for I am personally bored by meetings and the sheer waste of good writing time involved in parliamentary maneuvering. But in a free country one is entitled to one's tastes—and as long as the Guild leadership did not tie me to a pro-Stalinist political line I was content to let the local unit be my bargaining agent.

If it had ever come to the point of forcing me to accept an agent against my will, however, I would have found some other line of work. Even raising potatoes would have been preferable to asking a mere agent for permission to hold a writing job.

About Town

—By Gene Brown

The panhandler shuffled over to a well-dressed Banker and extended his hand “Mister,” he whined, could you spare a dime for a cup of coffee? The banker took one look at the panhandler and handed him a dollar bill and said, “Go buy yourself ten cups of coffee.” The next night the two met again. “How are you today?” said the banker. “You and your ten cups of coffee,” growled the panhandler, “They kept me awake all night!”

Dear Abby

Do Not Judge . . .

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man whose wife died two months ago and he is ready to marry another woman? The man is 45 and the woman he wants to marry is 30. His wife left five young children. Everyone knows they need a mother, but what is the hurry? The whole town is against this marriage. Even his own minister refused to perform the ceremony, saying it was disrespectful to the deceased wife for him to marry so soon. So the couple is going out of town to get married. What do you think of it?

SMALL TOWN

DEAR SMALL TOWN: Convention dictates a longer wait between mates than two months. But there is an old Indian adage: “Never judge a man until you have walked a month in his moccasins.”

DEAR ABBY: The person who wanted to know if the use of wedding bells had been discontinued prompted me to write. My husband is a preacher and lately he has added a touch at the close of the wedding service that has delighted all who have witnessed it. It's not original, but here it is: After the wedding ceremony, the bride and groom all the guests march to the bell rope. My husband then asks the newly-wed couple to place their hands on the bell rope, while he makes a few brief remarks, calling their attention to the necessity of pulling together now and all the rest of their lives. He also mentions that the tolling of the bells will announce to the world that they are man and wife, whereupon the couple rings the bell themselves. Sincerely,

MRS. D. H. LIGONIER, INDIANA

DEAR ABBY: I found a letter in my husband's pocket. It was from someone signed “TONI.” When I asked my husband about it, he said TONI was a fellow he worked with. Now would a MAN write to another man telling him how much he liked his hair cut and saying he was looking forward to the next time they could have a beer together? And isn't TONI a woman's name, and TONY a man's name? I am confused and need help on this before I get really mad.

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: TONI can be a man's name or a woman's, but don't assume the worst. Some men play the game only after they've been given the name.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALABAMA: Because many sin more than they suffer, some must suffer more than they sin.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

The club's worst golfer was having a particularly bad time on one hole, when he spotted an interloper watching him in stark disbelief from the edge of the fairway. “Hey, you,” barked the member angrily. “Only golfers are allowed on this course.”

The interloper nodded. “I know it, Mister,” he agreed, “but I won't say anything if you won't either.”

Crew Coach Darrow looked over a bowlegged freshman and inquired, “So you're aiming to come out for the crew, eh? Ever rowed before?” The freshman confessed, “Only a horse, sir.”

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Redevelopment, Bloodmobile, Sports Ruling, Sportsmen, And Wrong Name

On Sportsmen's Federation

Editor, The Daily Record:

All sportsmen clubs in the area should note that the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs is now being reactivated in Monroe County. It might be noted that Monroe and Pike counties are the only counties which are not now members of the federation. The PFSC is an organization of over a quarter million Pennsylvania sportsmen who are organized to secure legislation favorable to the sportsman.

With the coming of the Tock's Island development, the increase in the cost of hunting and fishing, closing of hatcheries, and the amount and species of fish and game being stocked, as well as other important matters which arise, it is more essential than ever that Monroe County have an aggressive unit.

It seems to me that a county like Monroe, with over nine thousand hunting and fishing licenses sold, should certainly be represented in Harrisburg when the PFSC meets.

Some people say that the counties with big cities are favored by the decisions of the fish and game commissions. This would not be so if Monroe County were active because each county has two delegates at the conventions.

Allegheny, Lackawanna and Luzerne Counties with the big cities of Pittsburgh, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre have the same two votes as small counties such as Monroe and Pike.

Some isolated sportsmen have the opinion that the federation is controlled by the Fish and Game Commissions. This is erroneous, the PFSC works for or against legislation in the interest of sportsmen.

In the past few months several meetings have been held to reorganize and on February 4th, Pete Murray, president of the Northeastern division and John Boylan, secretary of the Northeastern division, attended a meeting at the YMCA and pointed out the many advantages Monroe County sportsmen's clubs would gain by working together thru the federation.

All former member clubs and any new sportsmen's organizations who would like to see legislation enacted which would benefit their clubs are invited to attend a meeting in the S. E. room of the YMCA at 7:30 p.m., on March 4th.

You do not have to be a delegate from any club. All we want are people who are interested in the PFSC.

Praises Bloodmobile

Editor, The Daily Record: As many of you know I have been a patient at the Monroe County General Hospital four times in the past two years.

Each time I have needed blood which I received from our Monroe County Red Cross Chapter, 22 pints in all. No one knows only those who have received this life-saving blood, how much better you feel after the first pint.

I wish to thank our Red Cross, our wonderful doctors and nurses at the hospital and all those who have donated to replace the blood given me and all those who are going to donate in our next drive.

And I hope that anyone who can will give to help others in need of this life-saving blood. Thanks again to all and please remember the next Blood Drive which will be held next Tuesday, March 5th, at East Stroudsburg State College from 9:45 a.m. to 5:45 p.m.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

What's Inside?

WHAT MAGIC INGREDIENTS DO THESE BOTTLES CONTAIN? Do they hold harmful, injurious poisons? Or are they filled with healing medicines and vitamins? Will they inflict pain, or will they cure disease?

But what does it matter? If the contents are bad, we can pour them out.

But the minds of children is an entirely different matter. A small human being can be filled with selfishness and hate, or he can be filled with sincerity and love. Unfortunately, evil is more quickly dispelled from a glass bottle than from the soul of a child. For in the human mind bad thoughts can grow, and as time goes on, it is more difficult to replace them with truth and love.

That is why it is so important to instill within our children a sense of right and wrong at an early age. Of course, by example, "you" can be a tremendous influence. But you need the help of your church—the wisdom of Christ's teachings. With them, you can fill your heart with the essential ingredients for a happy and fruitful life.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

With commendable self-restraint, let's say as little about the weather as possible. Except to note that many of the people who had planned to attend the World Day of Prayer Services yesterday afternoon had to content themselves with private prayers at home — and others who hadn't planned to pray at all were saying involuntary prayers at their near escapes from accidents on the snowy highways.

We could also hope that the roads to Philadelphia are clear by Monday or there will be some mighty broken-hearted fifth graders who plan to visit their very own ship that day. They're so excited about the whole project.

And perhaps do a bit of envying of Al and Alice Groner who've been inspecting shrimp boats while wending their way ever further and further South. After a reunion with other Monroe Countians at Pompano Beach before taking off for Nassau on Monday.

If there was a ray of sunshine in yesterday for me it was the discovery of another talented woman in our midst: Mary Jane Wolbers who has specialized in the sacred dance. Her husband is on the faculty at the college and they're living in what people still call "the Worthington House" on South Green St. in East Stroudsburg.

How it has happened that church groups and club program chairmen haven't discovered her before now I can only attribute to the fact that she must be very modest. Anyway, she sounds fascinating. They're entertaining the visiting dancers after the performance next Wednesday, which also sounds interesting.

But at the moment, the matter of most pressing concern is getting home. Carry on, you snow birds. I'm hibernating for the weekend.

Billbins Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Billbins of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Shawnee-on-Delaware celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Feb. 26. Mrs. Billbins is the former Ruth Prazier, daughter of Olmstead J. Prazier of Shawnee-on-Delaware.

Start Rolling To Goals You Have Set For Yourself

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

Does your day-by-day existence sometimes promote the feeling you're not going anywhere?

"I'll say it does!" a woman answered yesterday when we popped this question in her direction, as her dreary-as-March countenance showed exactly how she felt.

Goals Frustrated

"Everything I want to do is out of reach right now. And everything I have to do gives me that frustrated feeling."

Unfortunately, that frustrated feeling of going nowhere knocks most people down now and then! So, if it's currently knocking you down with the fury of a March wind, what's a good thing to do right now to begin feeling you're going somewhere?

Action is your answer! Either mental or physical!

Roll To Goals

For instance, if you're a woman at home who feels she's going no place you might set up this year of your life as a bowling alley by rolling toward some tempins you can really hit.

One tempin, for example, might be half an hour a day for developing yourself as a person by pursuing something you really like to do.

Better Work

Similarly, if you're a man or woman who believes you're going nowhere in a job you can, for another of the tempins, take a first step at making yourself over into an employee with more to offer your present employer or a new one.

If, on the other hand, you're convinced you're going nowhere because this is a year in which you're tied down by somebody else's trouble or illness, set up as your first tempin the reminder that one of the best places you can go is into other peoples' hearts when they need you most.

Then, while you roll much harder toward that, set up nine other small-size pins that you can reach if you try.

Dates To Keep

Young Women To Organize GOP Council

A Young Women's Republican Council will be organized on Monday night at 8 in the Paradise Community Center Building, Swiftwater to which all young women in Monroe County who are registered Republicans, between the ages of 29 and 37 are invited.

Western Pocono GOP Women At Smith Home

Officers of the new Western Pocono Council of Republican Women will be installed at the April meeting by Mrs. Marie Mayer, vice chairman of the Carbon County Republican Committee who has organized two women's councils in her county.

Mrs. Fred Murdock, president, presided at the local meeting held at the home of Mrs. Warren Smith on Thursday night.

Miss Dorothy Davenport and Miss Jeanette Gemmill drove up from New York City for the purpose of becoming charter members of the new council.

Mrs. Murdock announced the following committee chairmen: program, vice president, Mrs. Clark Smith; membership, Mrs. Edwoud Hubbard; devotional, Mrs. Ida Sweet; campaign, Mrs. Roy Gower; legislative, Mrs. Michael Kelemen; congressional Mrs. Dorothy Davenport; political activities Mrs. Grace Altemose; and hospitality, Mrs. William Gould, assisted by Mrs. Hans Reiter.

Mrs. Mervin Fontanella, who assisted the women in organizing their council, presented a program on Political Activities particularly as they concerned women. She pointed to the addition of two more Republican women to membership in the House of Representatives: Mrs. Laurene George of Cumberland County and Mrs. Elizabeth Winter of Philadelphia.

She also called attention to the fact that Audrey Kelly has been named State Insurance Commissioner, the first woman to hold such a position in Pennsylvania, and the appointment of Mrs. Louise Russell of Wilkes-Barre, secretary of the Republican State Committee, to head the Bureau of Women and Children in the Department of Labor and Industry. Both Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Russell have been guests of local councils.

Mrs. Fontanella quoted Mrs. Russell's favorite saying "It's the rooster who crows, but the hen who produces." She also pointed to the rise of women to positions of importance on the international scene.

East Stroudsburg Artist Heads Sacred Dance Guild

At last week's annual meeting in New York City, Mrs. Charles Wolbers of East Stroudsburg, was re-elected to a second term as national president of the Sacred Dance Guild. A newcomer to the Stroudsburg area, Mary Jane Wolbers is a dance educator, and recognized authority in religious dance.

The Sacred Dance Guild is a national organization devoted to the promotion of dance as a religious art. It is interdenominational, embracing all faiths, and extends its training and experience to dance in religious education as well as to the use of dance in worship.

At its recent annual convence in New York, Guild members attended meetings, a choir director's clinic, and partook of two days of professional training. Several choirs and soloists presented works for critical analysis by a panel of theologians and dancers. Mrs. Wolbers presided at the executive board sessions, and the general meeting which followed on Feb. 22.

The local dancer, choreographer, and teacher finds her extensive preparation and experience in dance as a creative art particularly adaptable to work in the field of sacred dance. Her work includes direction of dance choirs, leadership training, teaching in church and Vacation Bible Schools, as well as solo work. Regarding dance as an art form which contributes significantly to understanding between faiths, she has worked with Catholic Youth Organizations, Jewish Community Centers, and the National Council of Churches. She was a featured speaker at the Council's "National Consultation on the Dance" two years ago in the Riverside Church of New York.

The Wolbers reside at 111 South Green Street, East Stroudsburg, with their four children who attend the local schools. Dr. Charles Wolbers is a Professor of Physical Education at the State College. Mrs. Wolbers holds a master's degree in dance from the University of Wisconsin, and taught in schools and colleges prior to her marriage.

March Marital Roundtable Herald Of June Weddings

Recognizing that one of the most important choices to be made in a lifetime is that of a marriage partner, the Monroe County Ministerium is conducting a "Marriage Roundtable" on Saturday, March 16.

Invited to attend the session are all young people who are newly married, have announced their engagements or are contemplating marriage. Last year a group of thirty-two young people attended the one-day session held during Lent.

This year Rev. John A. Bollier, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg, will again serve as coordinator of the course. Mr. Bollier will also speak on the "Spiritual Values in Marriage" as well as serve as moderator for the other discussions which will follow.

Mr. Bollier has been minister of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church for eight years, coming here from York. He obtained his education at the University of Michigan and Princeton Theological Seminary and has studied in Germany and Switzerland. He is married to the former Gertrude Lohman of Detroit, Mich., and is the father of three sons.

"Premarital and marriage education is still in its early stages and not many people are aware of its values. Although our local ministers always counsel the young people who come to them to be married, the course to be presented at the "Roundtable" will provide several additional hours of discussion on all aspects of married life," Mr. Bollier said yesterday.

"A group course such as this one is not concerned with marriages which are already in trouble — but rather with those which are happy and plan to stay that way! Courses such as this might come under the heading of "preventive medicine."

The "Roundtable" will be held from 10 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the First Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church with lunch being served as part of the registration which is $1.50 for a couple engaged or married and $1 for young people attending alone.

They may register for the course by contacting their minister or by calling Mrs. Peter Wyckoff 421-6902 or Mrs. Robert R. Hellman 421-6630 who are serving as secretaries for the course.

Dames Of Malta

The Dames of Malta will meet Monday night at the Malta Temple when there will be nomination of officers. Plans will also be made for the administration of the second degree to new candidates on March 18. Members of the second degree are requested to reserve that date. There will be no practice beforehand.

You may be able to obtain extremely large (15 to 20 to the pound) prunes in a specialty food shop. These are wonderful cooked in red wine with sugar added to taste after the prunes are tender but still hot. Serve these huge prunes as a company dessert topped with whipped cream and a sprinkling of crushed macaroons.

Fresh limes are said to keep well when refrigerated in a covered jar. Try this method and decide for yourself!

Fifth Grade Adopts Ship; Visit 'Baby'

No wonder the fifth graders are excited. They've adopted an 11-million dollar "baby" and are going to see it for the first time on Monday.

The fifth grade at the Clearview School, taught by Mrs. Lillian Wagner, first learned that their "baby", the African Neptune, could be adopted from a classmate whose father, Capt. Arthur Jensen of Cherry Valley, will command the ship.

Largest and newest of the merchant marine ships of the Farrell Lines, the ship will be loading cargo for its maiden voyage to Africa in Philadelphia. The whole fifth grade class, accompanied by Mrs. Wagner; Ralph Knaut, principal of Clearview; and Roger Dunning, elementary supervisor for Stroud Union, plan to visit it at the pier on Monday.

They already know a great deal about their "baby" and their bulletin board is filled with pertinent information about the ship, its cargo, and the ports it will visit.

'Pull Up An Easel' Topic For Dutch Treat Thursday

"Anyone who can hold a paint brush can learn to paint," contends artist Norman Garbo. It is a statement he plans to prove in his lecture demonstration, "Pull Up An Easel" when he speaks here on Thursday, March 7, at the dinner meeting of the Dutch Treat Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

His outlook is that art should be for fun, for relaxation. He himself was 15 years old before he showed the slightest interest in art as a profession or otherwise. Three years later, he was teaching art at the Brooklyn Academy of Fine Arts.

Since that time, Garbo has established himself as one of the talented young artists. His works have hung in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, The Chicago Art Institute, The Philadelphia Museum among others.

During the war, he was in charge of all art projects for the Air Force. He also initiated and helped set up an Art Training Program to assist in the rehabilitation of wounded veterans.

Since 1945, he has devoted himself to portrait painting, and is one of the few artists to have painted both Eisenhower and Truman. He also conducts classes in painting, writes an internationally syndicated column for amateur artists. His book "Pull Up An Easel" is now in its third printing.

Easter Egg Hunt Planned By Altar, Rosary

Canadensis — The annual Easter Egg hunt, sponsored by St. Ann's Canadensis, Altar and Rosary Society, will be held Saturday, April 13. Mrs. George Komenko will be aided by Mrs. Harold Kreck and Mrs. Harry Campbell in making arrangements.

During the business session, the date was set for the annual Women's Communion breakfast. Mrs. Mike Megargel, Mrs. Lester Caulfield and Mrs. Jack Rush will make arrangements for the May 19 breakfast to be held at Hillside Lodge.

Mrs. Sherwood Coffman and Mrs. Harold Kreck are responsible for altar care during the month of March.

The recent card party was termed a success in spite of the bad weather.

A rosary service was held by the 15 members prior to the business session, in memory of Mrs. Helene Horgan.

In the absence of Rev. William Cusick, moderator of the discussion group, members continued the prayer intention of success of the Ecumenical Council and prayers for Pope John's health.

Mrs. Komenko and Mrs. Joseph Gillespie were hostesses.

"You know, Mother—even if I were to let go of your tape recorder, it couldn't fall in this crowd," my son commented as we stood, packed like sardines, in the crowd just outside New York's famous Stage Delicatessen.

"You're right," I agreed, "and Mr. Asnas does all this business without a bit of advertising. It just goes to prove that when the food is good, the service fast, and the atmosphere friendly, a restaurant will get the word of mouth advertising which is the finest form it can have."

I always think of this in connection with our own Tea Room here at Wyckoff's. Rarely indeed does a Wyckoff Tea Room ad appear in the newspaper, unless to announce a special event such as our Oriental menu of this weekend. Yet have you ever tried to find a table at the height of the lunch hour, or on a busy Friday evening?

Inside, The Stage has the same warmth and steaming fragrances I always associated with our kitchen at home. My mother is an excellent cook . . . and I would hurry home from school knowing that something tempting would be simmering atop the stove or baking in the oven. Other specialized in soups thick with vegetables . . . crusty, brown meat loaves . . . three layer cakes. Max's restaurant offers matzoh ball soup with noodles, huge kosher pickles, juicy pastrami, rare roast beef, and the world's finest cheesecake, laden with jumbo strawberries. But food is food . . . and when it's good, it's heavenly, whether it is shish kabob on a stick or hamburger steamed in cabbage leaves. It is no wonder even celebrities congregate at The Stage and that one is not surprised to see Joey Bishop, Jack Leonard, or Mitch Miller at the next table.

This past Saturday it was Hans Conreid who slipped into a seat opposite Max, whose table Tim and I were sharing. Tragically enough, my dessert was just about gone, and I had no excuse to linger even though I would have enjoyed a much longer visit. Mr. Conreid had come from rehearsal and was weary. He is preparing a new play for presentation in Lexington, Ky., and has been on the road a great deal of late. Everyone here at home asks me if his voice is as thrilling in person as it was when he appeared recently as Mr. Lincoln on television. It really is . . . he is a gracious, friendly person, but an actor to the core.

Everyone appreciates a change of pace in food as well as in styles now and then, which is why I am certain our Tea Room will be jammed once again today. Our customers are people of cosmopolitan tastes, and I am sure that all of the International Taste Treats being planned by our Tea Room will be enthusiastically received. Today when you come in to dine, do begin with Won Ton soup. I pronounce this "Wantin' Soup" . . . not because I'm correct, but because I know you'll be wantin' more!

From Tundra To Desert Through Magic Of Hats

With the Poconos assuming many of the aspects of Antarctica in their 37th snowstorm of the season, winterwear residents can dream of desert sands and new Spring hats many of which are taking their inspiration from the new film "Lawrence of Arabia".

Masculine dash and daring make a deep impression on Spring fashions with the release of the Sam Spiegel-David Lean spectacular film about the Liberator of Damascus. The mystery of the ever-changing desert and the flowing grace of the Bedouin garb brings a "Chic Sheik" to the feminine costume.

Many of the trend-setting creators take their inspiration from the Knight of Arabia, bringing into the fashion scene a dazzling array of richly draped turbans, flamboyant fezzes and chiffon-swathed "pith helmets".

A few of the coming season's highlights are shown here:

At the upper left, Sally Victor has created a desert bonnet to keep the sun (Yes, Virginia, there really is a sun up there) off your back. A white linen straw with a rippling brim, it features a turquoise silk band. For less exotic moods, the hat looks equally right worn the other way round.

Above, John Frederick uses black and white polka dots to form a helmet with the fascination of the chick sheik desert touch. Side scarves to drape under the chin give high flattery with an aura of adventure.

At the left, Emme takes her inspiration straight out of the romantic Arabian Nights with a profuse turban in striped silk with a white chiffon scarf cascading to the shoulder, burnoose-style.

The "Lawrence of Arabia" influence is also evident in the colors of Spring hats. The purest white of the snow-capped mountain passes, and the desert dazzle of sunlit sand are reflected in straws, chiffons and featherweight felts. Blues range from pale turquoise of distant Sahara horizons to the mysteriously purpled shadows of black rocky wastelands.

Sand dune and camel browns, desert yellows from banana to burnished gold and copper, desert pinks of quartz to flamboyant cerise, sunset peach to oasis orange hues, touches of vibrant Arabian red and flame, to deep palm greens and polished Bedouin black complete the romantic palette.

Stroudsburg High Youth for Christ devoted its meeting this week to "Music, Music, Music" with E. Steinmetz, A. Lucky and W. Steinmetz presenting a skit; Ron Roph giving a testimony. Joyce Van Etten read the Scripture and Keith Drury and Dean Feller sang two duets. Bill Smith, YFC director, spoke to the group.

All Stroud Union High School students are welcome to attend club meetings held each Tuesday at 7:30 at the Wyckoff Recreation Center over the Sears Farm Store, North Sixth St.

The meeting next Tuesday night will present a dramatization of "Jimmy the Rat" dealing with drug addiction.

Scent Of Fresh-Baked Bread Warms Cockles Of Heart

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

Some day when you're feeling blue, sorry for yourself, and convinced that you can't do anything right, bake bread! It will do wonders for you, for you'll really feel as if you have done something spectacular when you pull it out of the oven.

Of course, if you're one who bakes bread all the time, it's perhaps routine to you. But if you're like me, you get the urge in the fall, when the weather is cool, to bake bread.

Last weekend I baked herb bread and it was delicious with a pot roast, and even better the next day as sandwich bread for the roast beef smeared with mustard. Don't be afraid to try baking bread if you've never done so; just follow directions carefully and do remember that hot water will kill the yeast. It must be lukewarm.

Good Herb Bread

1 package active dry yeast or 1 cake compressed yeast
1 1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
3/4 cup milk, scalded
3 to 3 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 teaspoons celery seed
1 slightly beaten egg

Soften active dry yeast in warm water or compressed yeast is lukewarm water. In large bowl, combine sugar, shortening, and salt; stir in hot milk and cool to lukewarm. Add about half of the flour and mix well. Add nutmeg, poultry seasoning, celery seed, softened yeast, and egg; beat smooth. Add remaining flour or enough to make a moderately soft dough. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic (about 8 minutes). Place in lightly greased bowl, turning once to grease surface. Cover; let rise in warm place till double (about 1 1/2 hours).

Punch down (put fist right in dough and actually punch the dough down flat); cover and let rest 10 to 15 minutes. Shape in round loaf; place in greased 8 or 9 inch pie plate. Cover and let rise in warm place till almost double (45 to 60 minutes). Bake in hot oven for 35 minutes or till done.

Whole Wheat Batter Bread

1 1/2 cups warm water
1 package active dry yeast
2 tablespoons honey, brown sugar, or light molasses
1 cup unsifted whole wheat flour
2 cups sifted all purpose flour
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons soft shortening

Dissolve the yeast in 1/4 cups of warm water. Add the honey, half of the whole wheat and white flour, salt and shortening. Beat 2 minutes on medium speed on electric mixer (or 300 vigorous strokes by hand) scraping the sides of bowl. Blend in the remaining flour using a wooden spoon. Keep blending until the mixture is smooth. This requires 1 to 1 1/2 minutes. Scrape sides of bowl. Cover with cloth and allow to rise

Paris Decrees Sleeves To Warm Cold Shoulders

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Paris fashion arrived here a month after its debut in a sealed off section of a jet, in wax sealed cartons enveloped in heavy duty brown paper, or hung on racks in heavy wrappings to preserve their line and identity.

What was the big secret?

Sleeves.

Slavishly fashionable women haven't seen any for a long time, not since Mrs. John F. Kennedy. America's pacesetter, embraced "nothing" dresses and shell blouses that do without them.

On the surface it would appear that those Frenchmen were being typically quixotic, stitching voluminous yardage onto the shoulder to be worn when women least need them, in summer.

Why cover up a two-weeks-without-pay-tan? Why shut out the merest waft of a breeze? Oddly, the same women who now ask this incredulously shivered bravely through the winter with nothing but goose pimples from their shoulders to finger tips.

Of course, fashion, being a womanly thing, can be rationalized.

Upper arms, for example, are not as firm and shapely on all people as they are on the lithe young First Lady. Extra desserts and lack of exercise always show up there first. Worse, upper arm flabbiness betrays a woman's age quicker than her driver's license.

Besides, tans aren't always uniform and golden. Oddly cut bathing suits leave strange white patches, and blister peeling sun-in. Some are a part of a cape. And many, many more drop from the shoulder, or extend from the yoke.

Yves Saint-Laurent, Balenciaga, Hugh de Givenchy, Nina Ricci, Coco Chanel, Marc Bohan of Dior, Pierre Balmain — all battled for fashion supremacy is the supreme capital of style, and each in his individual way.

burn leaves unfavorable impressions.

At any rate sleeves are in. Most look compromisingly cool in diaphanous fabrics with plenty of elbow room. Some are long, slim, and tailored. Some are set

Fountain Hill Repeats Over Cards In Playoff, 62-57

DEFENDING champion Fountain Hill once again battled the game Cardinals of Pocono Mountain down to the wire last night in a thrilling District 11, Class B playoff contest before an overflow crowd of some 1300 in the East Stroudsburg State College Fieldhouse.

The Hillers, who last year edged the Cards of Coach Harry Werkheiser, 50-48, in the playoff, repeated again this year with a 62-57 victory.

It was a scoring battle all the way between Pocono Mountain's Ryan twins, John and Norbert, far on the court, also broke into and Fountain Hill's Jack Fry and Mickey Geiger.

Ryans Hit Well
North Ryan finished with 20 points — equalling the top putout of Fry for the Hillers — while John Ryan pumped in 17. Dave Ruehlman, the smallest boy by far on the court, also broke into double figures for the Cards with 10 tallies.

Geiger of the Hillers matched the 17-point output of John Ryan, while Terry Vought contributed 14. The Cardinals displayed their come-from-behind talents in this battle — as they have in many other games this season. Pocono Mountain never led until late in the third period. With only 29 seconds left, Norby Ryan hit for a deuce which gave the Cards their first lead of the night, 41-40. Fry immediately regained the lead for the Hillers, but Ruehlman pumped in a fielder with only six seconds remaining in the session to give the Cardinals a 43-42 edge entering the final frame.

Cards Take Lead
Ruehlman and Norb Ryan combined for four quick points at the start of the fourth quarter to give the Cards their biggest bulge of the night, a five-point lead at 47-42.

They held onto the lead until 3:56 when Mickey Geiger connected on a one-hander from outside to give the Hillers a 52-51 advantage.

But John Ryan came right back with another deuce for a 53-52 Cardinal lead.

But Fountain Hill was not to be denied. With 3:16 remaining, George Kulanko pushed in a one-hand jump shot, regaining the lead for the Hillers, and the Cards fell steadily behind after that.

Freeze Ball
Kulanko's shot was the first of seven straight points rung up by the Hillers, giving them a 59-53 advantage, and the Hillers merely had to freeze the ball with the last two-and-a-half minutes left to gain the playoff verdict.

Fountain Hill took an early lead at the start of the contest, and except for a 6-6 tie at 4:09 of the first period, the Hillers led all the way until the latter part of the third period.

Twice, the Hillers held leads of 10 points — at the closing part of the first quarter, 19-9, and again at the start of the second canto, 21-11.

But the Ryan twins, along with Ruehlman, Ken Phillips and Neil Costanzo, combined to narrow that gap to only one point at the half, 31-30.

SIDELIGHTS — The Pocono Mountain team arrived late — only 20 minutes before the start of the game. Joe Murray, faculty manager of athletics, said the bus was ready to leave from the school at 6:30 p.m., but several team players showed up late, causing the delay. Among the many persons attending the game were Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, Mr. and Mrs. John Eiler (he's ESSC's director of athletics and soccer coach), Ralph O. Burrows, chairman of the District 11 PIAA, and Ed Krawitz, Stroudsburg attorney.

The gym was by far the noisiest — and most crowded — of the season. Fountain Hill used as a mascot a student dressed in a complete Tiger outfit.

During the social luncheon, Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, the college president, will welcome the coaches to the ESSC campus.

The clinic activities will culminate with an indoor practice session held by the 1963 ESSC football squad.

Listed as staff members of the 1963 Red and Black Day are Bob Gimble, head football coach of Meyers High School in Wilkes-Barre; John Peteroskie, head football coach of Nesaminy High School; Al Erdosy, head football coach at Northampton High School; and Tom Faulkner, head football coach at Lehigh High School.

Attendance to the football clinic, held on the campus of East Stroudsburg State College, is by invitation only.

For the first time in the four year history of the clinic, college coaches will participate. The staff of the Lehigh University football team, with head coach Mike Cooley and backfield coach George Halfacre, will deal with

Lehigh Wrestlers Honored

LEHIGH University has named two wrestlers to the All-American first team, a slate picked by Jesse Hoke, editor of the Amateur Wrestling News.

The two, the only first-stringers from the east, are 125-pounder Bill (The Tiger) Merriam, Eastern champ last year, and undefeated team captain Kirk Pendleton at 157-pounds, defending Eastern champ and Outstanding Wrestler in the East last year.

Pendleton, if he wins in tonight's match against Springfield, will become the only Lehigh wrestler three years on the varsity without a defeat or a draw.

Pendleton has won 34 straight dual-meet bouts while at Lehigh, and was runner-up to the National champ at 147 last year after beating him during the regular season. Lehigh also had two All-American honorable mentions: Pat Smart at 130-pounds, also an Eastern Champ, and sophomore sensation John Illengwarth at heavyweight.

Rosburg In Lead At New Orleans Open

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bob Rosburg found the tricky winds at Lakeside Country Club anything but troublesome Friday and fired a record 67 for the first-round lead in the $40,000 Greater New Orleans Open.

Finishing at noon with his 5-under-par 36-31, the pudgy Rosburg — who grips a club like a baseball bat — kept in the lead even though the breezes slackened and other players were able to conquer par.

Another veteran, Bo Wininger, the defending champion, shot a 36-32-68 for second place while young Dave Marr finished third with a 33-36-69.

Gary Player, the little South African, carded a 70 for the best score among the golf world's Big Three — Arnold Palmer, Jackie Nicklaus and Player.

Palmer and Nicklaus, playing in the same threesome, found the going rougher and turned in 74s.

"Anybody who shoots a 75 or under on this course is playing magnificent golf," said Player after his round. "It's about as difficult a course as I've ever played."

ESSC Sophomore Wins AAU Fight

JACKIE Smith, 18-year-old sophomore at East Stroudsburg State College, last night knocked out James Riley in the third round to win the open championship of the Middle Atlantic AAU finals at The Cambria, Philadelphia.

Smith will be entered in the national championships at Utica, N.Y., next week.

ON successive Saturdays, Willie Shoemaker won two futurities this summer. He won the world's richest race with Candy Spots in Chicago and the next week won the Aqueduct Futurity with Never Bend, the horse he beat in Chicago.

Crowe's Bowl At Fleas Club

WEATHER permitting Crowe's will travel to Easton tonight to bowl Fleas Club. It will be the first of four matches that the local club will be on the road.

Tonight the Pocono boys will go with Frank Bell, Oscar Stuckey, Tom Sommers, Jake Nittel and Russ Bergman.

Red-Black Grid Clinic At ESSC

THE FOOTBALL coaching staff of East Stroudsburg State College will conduct their annual Red and Black Day football clinic today in the ESSC gymnasium.

Red and Black Day is designed so that the football staff of ESSC can be of service to the coaches of Northwestern Pennsylvania and Northern New Jersey.

Attendance to the football clinic, held on the campus of East Stroudsburg State College, is by invitation only.

Never Bend, who carries the silks of Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim, galloped home by 14 lengths in a betless sprint at Hialeah. Both have turned in sensational workouts in preparation for their big tests.

If all goes well Saturday, the May 4 running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs will be a natural. Trainers of both horses, Woody Stephens of Never Bend and Mosh Tenney of Candy Spots, have said the Kentucky Derby is the next chief objective for their stars.

Manny Yeaza
Never Bend will have Manuel Yeaza in the saddle and the early betting line indicated his chief competition is expected from Ozden Phipps' Royal Ascot, 5-1 and Elmdorf's B. Major, 8-1. All of the others—Taut Ship, Sum Dum Kid, Mr. Cold Storage, Bully Squire, King Toots, Master Dennis, Gray Pet and Tenacle—are rank outsiders.

Candy Spots, with Bill Shoemaker handling the reins, faces what appears to be a tougher field. And he never has carried his speed more than seven furlongs. Odds makers figure his chief threat will come from Fred W. Hooper Jr.'s strong entry of Sky Gem and Win-E-M-All to be ridden by Ismael Valenzuela and Braulio Baeza, respectively. The entry was held at 3-1.

Pre-race odds on the others ranged from 10-1 to 50-1. They are Denodado, Country Squire, Beekeeper, Royal Tower, Master Switchback, Tourlourou, Round Rock, Doolin Point and Might and Main.

Arizona Breeding New Game Fish

TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP) — A tropical fish sometimes seen in amateur collectors' aquariums is going to be used to spawn a new game fish in Arizona.

If the hybrid offspring produces sportsmen with as much fun as expected, it could spread to other parts of the southwest where summer waters are warm.

The plan won't help anglers in the north and east. This tropical fish, and their offspring, will die in waters below 50 degrees.

W. J. McConnell of the Wildlife Research Unit of the University of Arizona believes he has received the only wild Tilapia of Zanzibar to come to the United States.

Fifty of the Zanzibar species, native to the Indian Ocean, were shipped to McConnell by jet by Dr. Gerald Provost, director of the Tropical Fish Reserve Station in Malacca, Malaysia.

The idea is to mate the Zanzibar Tilapia with the domestic strain of Mozambique Tilapia. These are already established in Oklahoma and Alabama.

The resulting offspring offer some fascinating possibilities for fishermen.

All are males. That's good because they grow bigger and faster. They won't rise to a fly, but they aren't particular what kind of bait is offered. Dough or corn will do if worms aren't available.

When hooked, they put up as satisfactory fight. Not as good as bass, perhaps, but acceptable.

And when it comes to eating, they are better than bluegill and a lot of other American fish. What's more, they are easier to clean.

American fish are strictly carnivorous. It is extremely difficult to provide them with a food supply, particularly in small ponds. The Tilapia is a vegetarian.

Sanford's Big Year Gives Confidence

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — Jack Sanford's 24 game winning season in 1962 for the National League pennant winning San Francisco Giants finally has convinced him that he is a pitcher and not just a thrower.

"Before the middle of last season I don't think I ever really had confidence," explained the 34-year-old who this week came to terms with the Giants on a $40,000 contract.

"I always knew I could throw in the big leagues. Now I know I can pitch. I found I could hit the spots I wanted.

"I used a slider for the first time and had confidence in it when situations were tough—like the count of three balls and two strikes. Guys like Dick Groat used to tell me. Last year I could get them out."

Khru Suffers Sharp Rebuff In Chinese Reds Quarrel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has suffered a sharp rebuff in his efforts to patch up his quarrel with the Chinese Communists.

But officials studying the latest flood of words from Moscow and Peking are unwilling to conclude that a reconciliation has now become impossible.

What is evident is that the recent friendly gestures in the two big Communist capitals have been overrun by the bitter compilation of charges against Soviet leaders, including Khrushchev. They range from accusations of "double dealing" to complaints of betrayal of basic Communist doctrine, topped off with a demand for an apology for alleged past mistakes.

By contrast with the angry tone and bitter content of the Chinese Communist statement published in the Peking Peoples Daily Khrushchev in his Moscow speech on Wednesday stuck to the call for unity among the world's Communist parties, a position he emphasized at a January meeting of Communist groups in East Berlin.

American leaders are watching the development of the dispute closely at this critical and perhaps climactic stage because of its potential impact on Soviet policies toward the West.

If the differences are papered over in some manner to restore Soviet leadership over the whole Communist world, including Red China, for at least a temporary period, then it is assumed here Khrushchev might feel more confident in pursuing a more belligerent policy toward the Western allies on such issues as Berlin and disarmament.
